Admission: $5.00/day, Children under 12 free
Lectures: $12.00 + admission

Schedule

Friday, October 20, 10 am to 9 pm

10:00 am—Quilt Show and Silent Auction* Open

11:00 am—Lecture “Social Media for Quilters”

Jackie Marks explores social media for quilters. She will demonstrate ways to use Instagram and Facebook to advance skills, meet new people and recruit “followers” for your business or just to increase your online presence. Includes the basics of joining and using these platforms.

2:00 pm—Lecture “Let’s Talk About Design”

Sue Cortese shows and explains how quilters employ the elements and principles of design in both traditional and art quilting. A wide variety of quilts will be shared. She will share an exploration of color, value, balance, proportion and scale and take a look at how quilting design can influence the design of the quilt top.

7:00 pm—Friday Silent Auction* Closes

7:00 pm—Lecture “My Quilting Journey”

Sue Cortese provides a trunk show which starts with some of her first quilts and her most recent. She will talk about what she has learned along the way, how she has evolved as a quilter and the things which have influenced her. She will show her milestone quilts, the first ribbon winner, first original design, first published quilt, etc.

9:00 pm—Quilt Show Closes

Saturday, October 21, 9 am to 5 pm

9:00 am—Quilt Show and Silent Auction* Open

11:00 am—Lecture “The Creative Power of Quilting”

Although we may have different reasons for quilting, we are all connected by creativity! Diane Bohn believes that when you find your unique style and connect to your creativity, you will make your most beautiful work and find greater joy in the process. Share Diane’s creative journey and learn how to begin yours.

2:00 pm—Lecture “No Scrap Left Behind”

Amanda Jean Nyberg shares adventures in quilting that span the past 16 years and tell the story of how she became a quilter. She will show a variety of projects—from pincushions to bed-sized quilts—that utilize scraps of all sizes. Much of the work shown is from her new book No Scrap Left Behind (Stash Books, 2017). This lecture will inspire participants to save and use their scraps.
